

Element c

The best way to build the water filter would be to take what works and is most efficient between the water filters and improve on that. The water filter must be able to filter out all contaminants from any environment and make it drinkable. The best way to do this is by activated carbon sand gravel and javing something to purify whats left and remove all leftover materials.