

We didn't get to build a prototype because of an issue with class scheduling. We took too much time trying to finish the elements. We also had a hard time finding parts for our build and ended up with a very limited materials list. In the end we had taken too much time to figure things such as what we would make the prototype out of and we just ran out of time.