

Design Reflections:

The current design has a lot of room for improvement. Based on our peer's ideas, ours was more complex than it should have been. Ours was also much heavier than those around us, but we were limited with our resources on standby. Our solution was more out of the box as most were stuck inserting the sticks through the handle. However, unlike theirs, ours is a bit more adaptable. We were also the only group to use locking hinges based on those around you and the only ones who intentionally added a feature for adjustability.