

Element J: Documentation of Evaluation

We had Involvement of stakeholders, one of which was Mr. Lopez who helped us install the rain barrels. We also reached out to a university but they did not get back to us. Field experts were JO Wilson gardening team, that we reached out to them to figure out what rain barrels worked best. Documentation of the project was evaluated by our whole team.

We documented our project by taking photos and saving the emails about the rain barrel. Some of the times we took photos were when we were building base for the main barrel to sit on, and when we opened the packages of supplies.