

Element J: Reflection

Based on the responses of our stakeholder, the project was overall successful. The feedback we received concluded that our shelf is useful, aesthetically appealing, and is going to continue being used. This feedback is necessary in designing but also editing a similar project for a possible future stakeholder and will most likely be useful for many teachers.