

- We did not take any measured data -

We did test if water flowed and could be accessed through the nipples on the pvc pipe. From going up to the coop and looking at the barrel multiple times after rainfall, it successfully captured and held water in the barrel. Water also comes out of the spicket when opened.